Lynchburg, Va., September 19.—
When Thomas Stallings, a white man, aged twenty-three years, from Reidsville, N. C., was taken from a cell in the police station for examination today in the Police Court, he struck Policeman Cheatham over the head with a milk bottle and made a dash for liberty. Although dazed by the blow, the officer recovered in time to call for help, and Stallings was caught before he left the building. Stallings was arrested about midnight last night when he was arousing people in the suburbs and asking for lodging. He claims to be an inventor. He will probably be taken before a lunacy commission unless his mental condition improves.

cipalship, the $60 per month covering both.

Superintendent O. B. Mears, of the Princess Anne and Virginia Beach schools, said to-day that the Beach was without sufficient funds with all of its resources for current expenses considered to undertake the employment of a principal, either male or female, at $90 a month, and that the town would hardly have enough money to pay the teacher is chosen to take care of the present overflow. Superintendent Mears said the financial end of the proposition was one that had to be considered most carefully, because to increase the expenses with a $90 principal would mean the crowded schools would have to be run with three teachers.

School Trustee Herman Drinkwater said to elect a $90 principal, retain Mrs. Willett, at $60 and elect a new $40 teacher in addition to the present $45 teacher would mean that the Virginia Beach schools would have to close after a term only of six or seven months, which he thought would be a great loss to the children.

Superintendent Mears said that in his opinion the courts are without jurisdiction in the matter at this juncture, and expressed the view that when Judge White is appealed to to-morrow the whole matter will be referred back to the county electoral board to which the superintendent says first appeal lies by those objecting to Mrs. Willett.

The Light Committee reported that it was fast getting things in shape for a final report, which it would make on the proposed new lighting plant, and it would submit this report at the October meeting. Architect Collins is expected to complete his draft of the plans by that time, and the committee expressed the hope that negotiations for a site would also be brought to a satisfactory termination in time for the October meeting.

Winchester, Va., September 13.—The American people do not seem to have a correct impression of the real situation as it exists in Mexico, according to Herbert Einos, mining engineer, connected with the American Smeiting and Refining Company, who left yesterday for the home of his parents in Denver, Col., after visiting his brother-inaw and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Rice, in this city, for the past week.

Mr. Einos, who has been employed in Mexico for a number of years, states that the majority of the foreigners in that country believe Huerta would have suppressed the rebeis soon after assuming power had he been recognized by this government, which, they claim, would have enabled the Mexican authorities to borrow sufficient money with which to put down the revolutions.

Mr. Enos will spend some time with relatives in Denver, and will return to Mexico in the near future. His company has militions of dollars invested in mines in that country.

OYSTER CATCH IS SMALL.

Reports from James River Not So Encouraging as Was Expected.
Hampton, Va. September 10.—According to reports coming to Hampton, the advance notices of the big supply of oysters in James River will not prove to be true, as it is said among the tongers that the catch so far has not been large, and the indications for that the season will not be a good one.
Many of the tongers declare that the catch so far has been small, and the season opened only on Monday. It was said that the oysters taken from the rock are good, but that the impression prevails among the tongers that the season will not be as good as last.

Several of the big buyers returned yesterday from the James River and said that the river is lined with tongers, but so far the catch of the bivalves has been anything but good.
